

Get to know more about Dan Pitre!

At around the age of 14, I fell in love with the sport of handball. It all started when I was in a park called McCarren and I was by myself on a handball court, bored, and a group of teens walked up to my court and told me to get off because they wanted to play on the court. I told them that they had to play me for it since that's what I've always seen my dad do and they beat me really bad and I was so upset that I told my dad to teach me so I could beat those kids.

Once I started to play, I couldn't stop. Handball has honestly made me a better person and kept me in good shape because it kept me away from harmful substances like drugs. The best moment I've ever experienced in my handball career was when I won Prince of the Courts, beating multiple top juniors and became the first Prince of the Courts. Another great achievement was when I won the ICHA Open singles!

ICHA tournaments have influenced my game a lot, especially since they throw a lot of small ball tournaments where it's hard to play with a stiff arm and sloppy form. These tournaments have helped me keep my form and swing nice and solid. It also kept me sharp and ready to compete in all events. Since the beginning of my participation in the ICHA tournaments, I've always had a lot of fun going to them to see and meet both old friends and new people who have come to compete and to watch them grow along with me.
